"We are pleased to announce our first annual "Tag The World Charity Celebrity Triathlon" to be held 8/23 in Waikiki HI. Please see www.tagtheworldtriathlon.com for all the details, information, and registration.

The main purpose of this event is to raise funds and awareness for the local Hawaiian charity "It Takes An Ohana." This organization assists with the foster youth of Hawaii through training, schooling, and assistance through transitions. It has already changed more than 300 youths lives through proper placement and outreach programs. We currently have 15 high profile celebrities committed to participate including; Laird Hamilton, Mia Hamm, Hannah Cornett, Wilmar Walderama, Andy Baldwin (The Bachelor), Jordan Farmar (Makers), Pauly Shore, Paul Gasol (Makers), Amber Valletta (actress/supermodel), Gabby Reese, Jeremy Jackson (Baywatch), Sean Farris, Fergie, Chris Harrison(Bachelor host), Dean Cain (Superman), Robert Parks-Valletta (president TTW/actor), Jeff Timmons (98 Degrees), Michael Copon (Scorpion King), Ryan Eggold (cast of 90210), cast of Days of Our Lives, and several more. Each Celebrity will be paired with a foster youth and a triathlete to compete on VIP teams. We are pleased to announce our press and media (E! News, Entertainment Tonight, CBS, Skysports, ESPN and several national media outlets as well as local and national print such as Hollywood Reporter, Honolulu Star Bulletin, LA Times, etc) for this event. We are also partnering up with the Hawaii Board of Tourism, Xterra wetsuits, Xterra shoes, Buff, and more. Come out and race with your favorite celebrity, raise money for local charities, and win a prize (awards will be 1st-5th deep for age groups.) Following the triathlon on Sunday we will be having a Luau in Kapiolani Park in Waikiki with a local artist as well as a surprise celebrity artist. There will be food, fun, and celebration of Hawaii sports and culture. Get online, get registered, and start giving back! Tag you're it!
